NEHAD ABUELKOMSAN - LAWYER OF THE GIRL FROM ARISH - THREATENS RUMOR SPREADERS

As soon as the incident, known as the "Arish Girl," occurred, many Egyptians requested that well-known lawyer and human rights activist Nehad Abuelkomsan take on the case of the victim, Naira Salah, in order to discover the details of the incident and the real reasons behind her death.

Indeed, Nehad Abuelkomsan promptly responded and confirmed that the family of the victim, Naira Salah, had granted her power of attorney to defend her rights. A dedicated team from her office was then dispatched to investigate the case. She has begun preparing a comprehensive scenario to restore Naira's rights and to take legal action against those responsible for her suicide and psychological harm, including those who were involved in her exploitation at the time of the incident.

Ms. Abuelkomsan also confirmed the existence of a paid scenario orchestrated by some individuals to generate confusion, controversy, and divert the case from its true context, similar to the defense scenario of Mohamed Adel, the murderer of Naira Ashraf, a Mansoura University student. This strategy aims to manipulate the truth and distort the essence of the case.

However, Ms. Abuelkomsan emphasized that the investigating authorities are keen on protecting the rights of the people, and the prosecution is closely monitoring the situation, fully countering this scenario.

Ms. Abuelkomsan clarified that "such scenarios are destined to fail, just like the defense scenario of Mohamed Adel, the murderer of Naira Ashraf. Despite spending millions of pounds on his defense and tarnishing the reputation of the victim, the scenario failed, and the murderer was executed." She declared her intention to sue the promoters of these rumors and false narratives.

Continuing with the investigations, Ms. Nehad Abuelkomsan reassured concerned followers about the latest developments in the investigations. She confirmed that the investigations are ongoing and addressed another malicious rumor that circulated suggesting that she had abandoned the case due to personal threats. She denied this claim in a video posted on her personal social media pages, reiterating that she had not and will not abandon Naira's case and her rights.

Not only that, but she made it clear that she will not allow anyone to pressure Naira's family into giving up their rights. She emphasized that investigations take time, and that the prosecution has directed three charges. The first is the crime of extortion, the second is the violation of personal privacy, and an additional third charge of suspected murder has been added.

She also stressed that the case is not a news bulletin and that following the updates does not happen in such a manner. She confirmed in the video that the suspects have had their detention renewed and that the investigation is still ongoing.

Your Legal Advisor in Family Matters...Divorce for Harm...Recurring Tragedies!

Marwa A., a young lady in her mid-twenties, filed a divorce complaint in the Family Court against her spouse 'Mahmoud' in the based-on harm. This occurred after only a year and a half of their marriage. Marwa justified her complaint by claiming that her spouse repeatedly insults her, deliberately humiliates her, and mistreats her without justification or cause. Recently, he intentionally humiliated her in front of a friend by saying, "You are a slipper on my foot." The wife has been living in terror ever since they got married due to her husband's behavior.

With each incident of abuse and humiliation, she becomes more convinced that there is no life between them, and that separation is imminent.

One day, in a family setting, a friend of the husband visited the marital home with his wife to have dinner together and celebrate the marriage of both couples. A verbal altercation ensued between the spouses in front of the husband's friend and his wife. The argument ended with the husband verbally abusing and insulting his wife, saying, "You are a slipper on my foot." The wife collapsed, feeling humiliated, and screamed at him, only to be physically assaulted. Marwa decided to end her marital life after Mahmoud's physical assault and humiliation in front of others. She approached the Family Court to file a claim for divorce on grounds of harm, citing the physical, psychological, and emotional harm she suffered, supported by a forensic medical report

Your legal advisor for family cases (your lawyer) explains:

The wife has the right to file a claim for divorce on grounds of harm, and if any of these conditions are met, the judge may rule in her favor after proving the harm mentioned in the claim. Based on this, she requested the divorce. The most prominent and common cases include physical abuse, verbal insults and defamation directed towards the wife, or psychological harm inflicted upon her by her husband. This should be witnessed by individuals who can testify to these attacks. In such cases, she has the right to file a claim for divorce on grounds of harm because she has been negatively affected by the marriage.
